San Vito Lo Capo, where the village meets the sea

Public Archive of the Municipality of San Vito Lo Capo · SanVitoVirtual, created by Francesco Ferla.

The beach meets the village: combine a swim with the Sanctuary, Via Savoia and the harbour without spending the day in a car. These stops introduce San Vito beyond its shoreline.

Piazza Santuario and the village centre

The fortress-like Sanctuary of San Vito Martire is the landmark of the centre. Start in the square, follow Via Savoia and explore side streets of low houses, courtyards and bougainvillea. Observe services and posted opening times when entering the church.

From the seafront to the harbour and lighthouse

The seafront is the easiest walk after a swim. Continue towards the harbour to see the boats and the shape of the bay. View the white lighthouse from outside; do not assume that a visit includes admission to its tower.

Tonnara del Secco and Monte Monaco

Choose one outing beyond the centre: the coast at Tonnara del Secco or a walk up Monte Monaco. The former evokes tuna-fishing history, but its abandoned buildings are not open to visitors. The latter is a proper hike requiring suitable footwear and a return plan.

An unhurried day

Spend the morning at the beach, have lunch in the village, rest through the hottest hours and walk to the harbour in the late afternoon. Before departure, luggage storage at Via Venza 5 can free up your final hours; agree collection time with the operator.

Webcams and views of the village

Looking for the old San Vito Lo Capo webcam? This guide no longer presents the historic link as a live service. Photographs illustrate the area but do not show real-time sea conditions. Check current forecasts and notices before choosing between the village beach, harbour, Secco coast and Gulf of Macari: exposure varies along the coast. Macari, a place for sunsets

Public Archive of the Municipality of San Vito Lo Capo · SanVitoVirtual, created by Francesco Ferla.

Macari, also spelled Makari, sits on the slope above the Gulf of Monte Cofano. Its appeal is the landscape: viewpoints, small coves and sunsets, with San Vito nearby for village services.

The viewpoint: stop in the right place

The view takes in the Isulidda coast and Monte Cofano. Visit during a transfer or in the late afternoon, using permitted stopping areas. The approach road is not a parking bay for taking photographs.

Bue Marino, Isulidda and Santa Margherita

Bue Marino is pebbly, Isulidda combines pebbles and rock, and Santa Margherita has a sandy shore. They are different places, not three names for one beach. Choose by water access, your equipment and whether you are travelling with children; individual profiles and maps are in the beach guide.

Where to stay and how to get around

Staying in the hamlet prioritises views and quiet over a beach on the doorstep. Check road gradients, the actual walking route to the sea and parking. A short map distance is not always an easy walk with bags or a pushchair.

An afternoon on the coast

Choose one cove for the afternoon, then head uphill for the gulf views. If wind or waves make swimming unappealing, enjoy the scenery without forcing a rocky descent. For dinner, choose between the hamlet and San Vito village.

Castelluzzo, between olive groves and the sea

Public Archive of the Municipality of San Vito Lo Capo · SanVitoVirtual, created by Francesco Ferla.

Castelluzzo is the gateway to San Vito’s countryside: olive groves, village houses and land sloping towards Santa Margherita and the Gulf of Monte Cofano. Use it to combine the coast, walking and the inland landscape.

The village and olive oil

Olive groves distinguish Castelluzzo from San Vito’s urban beach. Ask local shops about origin, harvest year and tastings. Arrange farm visits directly: olive groves and mills are not all open to walk-in visitors.

The coast beyond Santa Margherita

Beyond Santa Margherita, the coast includes Calazza, Scaru Brucia, Scaru Zu Asparu and Agliareddi. Sand, pebbles and rocky platforms alternate. Pick a specific cove rather than searching for a generic “Castelluzzo beach”; the beach guide links to each location.

Towards Custonaci and Monte Cofano

Monte Cofano dominates the view. For a walk, identify the reserve entrance and an open route first. For a cultural day, head towards Custonaci and Scurati. Do not confuse the surrounding cycling park with trails inside the protected reserve.

Choosing a countryside base

Check whether accommodation is in the village, beside the main road or in the countryside near the coast: distances, noise and car needs differ. Alternate beach and inland days to avoid repeated daily journeys between San Vito, the hamlets and the shore.

North or south entrance?

From San Vito use the north entrance on the SP63; the south entrance is on the Scopello side. A coastal footpath, not an internal road, links them. A full crossing requires a return walk or transport arranged outside the reserve.

Choose the coastal or mid-level trail

The coastal trail is about 7 km between entrances; the manager gives roughly 2 hours one way without stops. The mid-level route also visits Borgo Cusenza; its description gives about 7.5 km and 3 hours. Swimming, museums and heat all extend the outing.

The coves have different names and approaches

The north side gives access to Tonnarella dell’Uzzo and the Uzzo area. Along the coast are Marinella, Berretta and Disa; Capreria is near the south entrance. Cala del Varo is reached from the sea. Use the beach guide for individual locations and access notes.

Alba Chiara B&B Mancina Soul Sale e Mulini

Tickets, water and visiting rules

Follow the manager’s current ticket instructions and check closing time and daily notices. Bring water and food for the full walk rather than planning a café stop inside. Closed shoes and an offline map are more useful than flip-flops; wells and troughs are not a reliable drinking-water supply.

A worthwhile shorter visit

With half a day, use one entrance, choose an accessible cove and return the same way. For a longer hike, dedicate the day to the reserve rather than adding distant stops. The trail map and entrance staff can help you choose a realistic plan.

Monte Cofano, a striking coastal landscape

Cornino, Frassino and the tuna-fishing coast

Choose your starting side: Cornino and Frassino are landmarks on the Custonaci side, while Tonnara di Cofano faces the other side of the headland. Locate them on the map before navigating; a generic reserve search may lead far from your intended walk.

Towers, shoreline and maritime heritage

Torre di San Giovanni and Tonnara di Cofano are landmarks in the headland’s history. Coastal walks reveal the meeting of limestone walls and sea. Do not assume buildings are open: walking through the landscape and entering a historic structure are separate activities.

Coastal walking and summit routes

Height alone does not describe route difficulty. Coastal circuits and summit ascents have different demands. Choose open sections suited to your experience and conditions, and check the manager’s notices before planning a complete loop.

Cycling and swimming nearby

Custonaci’s cycling park offers routes around the reserve, not permission to cycle inside it. For a swim, consider Cornino or the coves towards Castelluzzo. Plan beach and trail access separately.

Shore and seabed: Rocky shoreline in front of the former tuna-fishing complex.

Getting there: From the road to Tonnara del Secco, use permitted coastal access. The buildings are not a visitor facility.

Facilities: Do not assume beach facilities are available at the tuna-fishing complex.

Before choosing: For coastal scenery and maritime heritage. Do not enter abandoned buildings or cross restricted areas.

Zingaro’s seven coves: north to south

From San Vito use the north entrance; from Scopello the south entrance. No road runs through the reserve. Visiting a cove is part of a walking trip: do not count on beach clubs or refreshment stops. Bring water, lunch, a hat and closed shoes.

Practical details that make a difference

Parking and the final walk

In the village, plan parking and any restricted traffic zones before driving to the seafront. For coves, a Google Maps result is not permission to drive on tracks, enter private land or park on the roadside. Charges, shuttles and summer restrictions depend on the season and municipal rules. Getting here and around .

Children and accessibility

For fewer transfers with pushchairs and bags, start with the village beach. If assistance is needed to enter the water, confirm walkways, beach wheelchairs, accessible toilets and availability before visiting. Easy road access does not necessarily mean an accessible waterline. Pebbles, steps and rocks require individual assessment.

Wind, waves and snorkelling

Compare the wind forecast with the waves actually present. The west and east coasts can have different conditions, but no cove is always sheltered. Identify your exit before swimming; when snorkelling stay near shore and clear of boat channels. Leave shells, rocks and living organisms in place.

By boat: Zingaro coast and Scopello

Trips along the eastern coast show Zingaro from the sea and may continue towards Scopello. Ask about the harbour, precise boarding point, duration, passenger numbers and stops. A swimming stop does not necessarily include landing on a beach.

On foot: Monte Monaco, Zingaro and Cofano

Choose Monte Monaco for village views, Zingaro for walking and coves, and Monte Cofano for a headland and towers. Compare routes in the walking guide. Decide whether walking or swimming is the priority: equipment, timing and water needs differ.

Erice and Custonaci: a day inland

Erice offers village walks and a different view of the Trapani area. Custonaci and Scurati combine scenery with local history. Choose an area and check the specific sites you want to visit rather than automatically fitting several visits into one afternoon.

Alba Chiara B&B Mancina Soul Sale e Mulini

Commercial partners - clickable links

Egadi Islands: plan a dedicated outing

Favignana and Levanzo involve different logistics from San Vito’s coast. Clarify whether transport to Trapani is included, where the boat leaves and how you return to San Vito. A scheduled ferry ticket is different from an organised excursion with stops and assistance.

What to ask before confirming

For any activity, confirm inclusions, lunch, equipment, supplements and bad-weather arrangements. Mention children’s needs or mobility difficulties. Contact Sale e Mulini through its website for information on excursions, rentals and transfers.

Sailing and charters: choosing a coast

From San Vito Lo Capo harbour, look for a shared excursion, a skippered boat or a private charter. Eastwards, the Secco coast leads towards Zingaro and Scopello; westwards, the scenery includes Cala Mancina, Isulidda, the Gulf of Macari and Baia Santa Margherita. Treat these as alternative routes to discuss with the operator according to wind, sea conditions and duration: a half-day trip does not automatically include Scopello. Ask about the boarding point, group size, equipment, possible swimming stops, meals and cancellation terms. A sailing trip may include motoring. Timetables and stops on historic pages are not current bookable departures.

Sale e Mulini · Boat excursions

Kitesurfing and windsurfing: planning a session

Before choosing a beach and day, contact a school or instructor and explain your experience. Wind strength alone is not enough: direction, launch and return space, swimmers and local restrictions all matter. A quiet winter beach is not automatically available for kitesurfing. Ask the operator to check the permitted area and appropriate equipment rather than relying on generic wind thresholds. Beginners should arrange a lesson. If bringing equipment, discuss storage, drying space and transport with your accommodation, and keep an alternative day for walking, cycling or exploring the village.

Ideas for outdoor days

Kayaking and canoeing along the coast

For a first outing, choose a guided trip or a rental provider that clearly explains the paddling area and return arrangements. Not every part of the San Vito coastline offers an easy landing: a cove on a map is not necessarily a usable access point. Ask about actual time on the water, required experience, buoyancy aids and equipment, sea conditions and the meeting point. Tell the organiser about children or inexperienced participants. Keep water, your phone and belongings suitably protected, and agree what happens if conditions change. Reserve visits and any landings must respect the relevant authorities’ rules.

Paragliding: check the available experience first

Arrange a flight through a qualified school or operator. This portal does not identify slopes as unrestricted launch sites or promise daily flights. Before booking, ask where the activity takes place, participant requirements, applicable cover, transfer times and the weather postponement policy. The operator assesses conditions and may change the programme. Do not build a whole day around an unconfirmed flight; keep a land-based alternative such as Custonaci or a village walk.

Salinella and its sectors

The western cliff has northern, central and southern areas. Bunker and Terra Media are in the central area; Torre Isulidda and Seagull are in the far south. TheCrag lets you move from area to sector for grades, route lengths and access notes.

Macari, Castelluzzo and Monte Monaco

TheCrag also distinguishes Castelluzzo/Macari and Monte Monaco. A different area may suit a different day. For multi-pitch routes, do not assume single-pitch equipment and logistics are sufficient; consult the description of the specific climb.

Season, sun and rest days

Salinella is predominantly west-facing, so afternoon sun matters, especially in hot weather. Spring and autumn allow climbing to be combined with walks and local visits. On rest days, consider the village, Erice or a walk appropriate to conditions.

Access, equipment and services

Ask your accommodation about equipment storage and access to your chosen sectors. When booking transport, allow for luggage volume and return times. Respect signed access, fences and private land. An online route listing does not certify bolts or anchors.

Fish couscous: the signature dish

Trapani’s tradition pairs hand-worked semolina with fish broth. Ask how it is served: portions, accompanying fish and preparation vary between kitchens. Make time for it at lunch or dinner rather than squeezing it between excursions.

Busiate and Trapani-style pesto

Look for busiate pasta with Trapani-style pesto, made with tomato, basil, garlic and almonds. Variations may include aubergine, fish or other ingredients. Read the menu and ask what distinguishes the house version rather than expecting an identical dish everywhere.

Pane cunzatu and an informal lunch

Bread, olive oil, tomato, cheese and anchovies express a simple local cuisine. Pane cunzatu makes an informal alternative to a seafood restaurant. When taking food on a walk, consider heat and storage, and take all packaging back from the coves.

Alba Chiara B&B Mancina Soul Sale e Mulini

Commercial partners - clickable links

Caldo Freddo: a stop of its own

Ice cream, sponge cake, cream and hot chocolate come together in the traditional lemmo bowl. The sponge may be soaked in liqueur; ask how it is prepared if you prefer to avoid it. Enjoy it after a walk or share it rather than treating it as an ordinary takeaway ice cream.

Castelluzzo olive oil, seafood and sweets

Balance signature dishes with local olive oil, the kitchen’s seafood selection and Sicilian pastries. Discuss allergies directly with the venue: almonds, milk, gluten and fish occur in many dishes. Book busy evenings and confirm prices and availability with the restaurant.

Restaurants: choosing a meal of local cooking

For a meal focused on local cooking, compare menus: fish couscous, fresh pasta and the catch of the day may need different preparation times. Ask which dishes require advance ordering, explain dietary requirements and confirm opening, prices and availability for your date. Consider the setting and service too: a dinner in the village centre and a quick lunch near the beach suit different plans. Book directly with the restaurant and agree any special requests.

Pizzerias, delis and takeaway meals

An informal meal might be pane cunzatu, savoury bakery food or pizza. Choose somewhere that fits your day. Ask whether service is at the counter or at a table, whether takeaway orders can be booked and how dishes sold by weight are priced. For takeaway couscous, confirm availability, collection time, ingredients and storage directly. Before a reserve outing, arrange lunch and water and take packaging you can carry out again.

Cafés, gelaterias and Caldo Freddo

A sweet stop can be part of your itinerary. La Sirenetta, at 2 Via Savoia, lists ice cream, granita and Caldo Freddo on its own website, making it a useful reference near the beach. Caldo Freddo combines ice cream, warm chocolate and cream; ask about ingredients and portion size before ordering. For granita, check the day’s flavours and whether you would like a brioche alongside it. A seafront aperitivo and an ice cream in the centre suit different moments: check the displayed menu, table-service charges and seasonal opening. Old directory contacts are not proof that a business is still operating.

Pastry shops and treats to take home

Cannoli, cassata, marzipan fruit and almond pastries showcase different uses of ricotta, citrus and nuts. Pasticceria Capriccio’s own website describes its handmade range and lists a location at 97 Via del Mulino; use that current reference rather than the address in the portal’s old pages. Ask which pastries are filled to order and which travel best. Ricotta and cream products need different storage from dry biscuits: ask the bakery how to transport and store your purchase. For particular dietary needs, check ingredients and preparation directly with the producer.

Capriccio · Website and current contacts

Aperitivo and evenings in the village

After the beach, the centre and seafront offer a stroll between cafés, gelaterias and bars. Choose an aperitivo, dinner or music evening according to the actual programme: opening changes through the year and not every venue offers entertainment. For public events, consult our Events guide and the organisers. Check menus and service terms before ordering. If staying in Macari or Castelluzzo, arrange your return rather than assuming evening transport will be available.

Village events

Il Ficodindia: another local dining reference

Il Ficodindia, in the extension of Via Savoia, presents local cooking on its own website. If you are looking for the restaurant from the portal’s historic listing, the link below leads to its presentation and contact information. Ask directly about opening for your date, the available menu and reservations. Dishes mentioned in old reviews or listings may change: discuss your choice with the restaurant, especially for a particular preparation or dietary requirement.

Cous Cous Fest: the next announced dates

The organiser announces the 30th edition for 17-26 September 2027. The festival combines couscous, culinary exchange and cultural encounters. Edition dates do not automatically confirm concerts, guests, prices or individual activities; consult the 2027 programme when published.

The patron saint’s festival

Keep June in mind for the patron saint’s celebration. Check the current edition’s programme before arranging your stay: religious services, village events and traffic restrictions each have their own schedule. Past editions do not establish the times of future events.

Summer: cinema, books and jazz

SiciliAmbiente focuses on cinema and environmental themes; Libri, autori e bouganville hosts literary encounters; San Vito Jazz adds music. They offer reasons to enjoy the centre after the beach. We do not assign 2027 dates until confirmed.

Tempu ri Capuna: autumn and lampuga

Capone, also known as lampuga or mahi-mahi, is the focus of an event celebrating the sea and local cooking. Choose activities from the organisers’ published programme and check venues, bookings and prices. A menu or ticket from an earlier edition is not an offer for the next one.

In the village: beach and evenings on foot

The centre suits a stay combining beach, restaurants and walks without driving. Check the actual beach route and pedestrian areas. Ask how to reach the entrance with luggage and where to park, particularly during festivals and busy evenings.

Macari: views and a hillside base

Macari prioritises gulf views. Consider gradients, cove access and transport: a sea view does not mean a flat walk to the beach. Match it to your plans, particularly with young children or if you want to dine in San Vito every evening.

Castelluzzo: countryside and exploration

Castelluzzo can be a base for Santa Margherita, Custonaci and local outings. Accommodation on the main avenue differs from countryside properties in parking, distances and setting. For active days, ask about early breakfast arrangements and sports-equipment storage.

Room, B&B or apartment?

A room suits days spent out; a B&B adds breakfast according to the property’s offer; an apartment allows more independent meals and use of space. Check real beds, separate bedrooms and sofa beds: maximum occupancy alone does not describe comfort.

Direct contact and clear conditions

Partner cards link to Alba Chiara B&B, Mancina Soul and Sale e Mulini. Confirm availability, prices, check-in, cancellation and facilities directly with the operator. This portal does not display live availability or collect booking payments; retain the property’s confirmation.

Stays for climbers, cyclists and walkers

For an active holiday, focus on practical arrangements: equipment storage, possible bike space, schedules that fit early starts and options for preparing or arranging meals. Ask exactly what is included and what costs extra. Compare the location with your chosen routes: the village suits beach access and evenings on foot, while Macari and Castelluzzo can be bases for outings around the area. Partner spaces include direct room and apartment contacts such as Alba Chiara B&B and Mancina Soul, plus travel services from Sale e Mulini. Three addresses offer different bases. Hotel Al Ritrovo is in Castelluzzo and describes its rooms and services on its own website. Zingaro Hotel is in San Vito Lo Capo village, with its own contacts and stay enquiries. L’Agave Superior Rooms, at 35 Via Nino Bixio, offers rooms in the centre and direct service information. From Palermo Falcone Borsellino

The airport lists Autoservizi Russo for San Vito Lo Capo. Search for your actual travel date, as stops, seasonal operation and timings can change. Before booking a return flight, also check the reverse journey and allow time for airport procedures and delays.

From Trapani Birgi

Airgest lists AST among operators linking the airport with Trapani. For public transport, check the onward connection from Trapani to San Vito and plan the two legs separately. Do not assume a direct airport-San Vito service operates at every time.

Private transfer or rental car

A transfer suits direct arrival at your accommodation followed by a village stay on foot; a car helps with hamlets, reserves and inland trips. For a quote, give airport, flight time and number, passengers, bags and child-seat needs. Ask about delays, supplements and the meeting point.

Driving into the village

Navigate to the access point agreed with your accommodation, not simply its name. Check restricted traffic zones, permits and luggage drop-off. Use permitted parking and current signs; map colours do not establish parking charges or rules.

Getting around during your stay

Walk around the centre and seafront. For Macari, Castelluzzo and reserve entrances, plan transport, parking and return; verify seasonal shuttles for your dates. If leaving after check-out, luggage storage at Via Venza 5 lets you separate your final village walk from the onward transfer.

Air passenger rights: ENAC information

A cancelled or delayed flight can also affect your transfer to San Vito Lo Capo: tell the person meeting you your flight number and revised arrival time. ENAC’s passenger-rights portal, linked below, covers delays, cancellations, denied boarding, baggage and assistance for passengers with disabilities or reduced mobility. Keep your booking, boarding pass, messages and receipts. Address a flight-related complaint to the airline first; ENAC explains how to report a possible breach to the authority. Its enforcement process does not automatically secure a refund. Use the current official guidance rather than outdated passenger-rights booklets.

Transfers and rentals: choose the right service

For airports and timed departures, arrange a transfer with a confirmed meeting point and price. Consider a rental car for hamlets and inland visits. Give passenger numbers, bags, child-seat needs and duration; different requests may require different vehicles and terms.

Excursions and island tickets

Distinguish a scheduled crossing ticket from an organised boat day. Ask about departure port, any transfer from San Vito and inclusions. Sale e Mulini provides information on excursions and traveller services; use direct contacts for options on your date.

Accessibility, families and practical needs

Before booking, mention steps to avoid, mobility aids, pushchairs or assistance needs. For beach access, ask about actual facilities rather than distance alone. Consult current notices for duty pharmacies and municipal services; in an emergency call 112.

Beach services: loungers, parasols and beach clubs

On the village beach, you can choose between bringing your own equipment and booking a beach-club spot. Ask how many loungers are included, the location, toilet and shower access, arrangements for children and accessibility needs, and what happens in windy conditions. Al Sabbione on San Vito Lo Capo’s seafront has an official website linked below; check services and availability directly. Do not assume the same facilities exist in the coves of Macari and Castelluzzo, where access and equipment differ. This guide links to coastal shuttles; the Beaches and coves guide describes each stretch of coast.

Links and map buttons require an internet connection. Information reflects the portal on 6 November 2026; consult the linked operators and authorities for current access and services.

One day: San Vito on foot

Spend the morning at the beach, lunch in the centre and walk along Via Savoia and Piazza Santuario. Rest through the hottest hours; visit the harbour and view the lighthouse from outside later. Luggage storage at Via Venza 5 helps if you arrive before check-in or leave after check-out.

Two days: add Macari and Castelluzzo

Spend day two on the western coast. Choose Santa Margherita for sand, or Bue Marino and Isulidda for pebbles and rock. Stop at Macari’s viewpoint and consider a break in Castelluzzo. One enjoyable cove is better than four hurried stops and repeated parking.

Three days: choose one reserve

For day three choose Zingaro or Monte Cofano. In Zingaro, plan an entrance, trail section and cove stop. At Cofano, choose a side and an open route. Avoid trying to hike and swim in both reserves on the same day.

Alba Chiara B&B Mancina Soul Sale e Mulini

Commercial partners - clickable links

Beyond summer: an outdoor plan

When temperatures suit, devote a day to Monte Monaco, one to climbing if you practise the sport, and another to Custonaci by bike or on foot. Match choices to equipment, experience and conditions. Balance activity with village food: couscous, busiate and Caldo Freddo make stops of their own.

Change the plan with the weather

Strong wind and waves can change boat trips and swimming; intense heat makes trails harder. Keep a flexible day for the village, a cultural visit or food. Check notices before reserve visits and booked activities.

Nature trips around the province of Trapani

Beyond Zingaro and Monte Cofano, devote a day to a different landscape. The Trapani and Paceco salt pans combine evaporation ponds, windmills and birdwatching; WWF publishes visit information. Further south, Marsala’s Stagnone brings together lagoon and salt pans, with a separate visit to Mozia requiring its own boat arrangements. Near Mazara del Vallo, consider Lago Preola and Gorghi Tondi, where visits should be arranged with WWF, and the Capo Feto coastline. Towards Selinunte, the Belice estuary preserves river-mouth and dune habitats. These places are spread out: choose one main destination, check access with the manager and allow time to return to San Vito. The map links locate areas but do not replace trail maps.

WWF · Trapani salt pans

WWF · Lago Preola and Gorghi Tondi

Inland: Bosco d’Alcamo and Grotta di Santa Ninfa

For a day away from the beach, consider Bosco d’Alcamo or Santa Ninfa’s karst landscape. The former is a wooded setting on Monte Bonifato; the latter is associated with gypsum, the Biviere valley and a cave protected by the reserve. Visiting the area does not automatically include entering the cave: ask the manager which activities are available and how to arrange them. The regional ORBS portal below describes the protected areas. Plan these as dedicated outings, checking access, opening and conditions before departure.

Sea, nature and seasons: choosing your trip

A beach holiday centres on swimming, short journeys and breaks during the hottest hours; an outdoor holiday also needs routes suited to your ability, equipment and a weather alternative. Spring and autumn allow a mix of walking, cycling, climbing and village visits, subject to conditions and open services. In winter, arrange transport and meals further ahead because seasonal availability changes. Combine a village stay with outings to Macari, Castelluzzo and Custonaci instead of changing base every night. Our walking, cycling and climbing guides help shape the days; no month alone guarantees suitable conditions.

Monte Monaco

The mountain at the eastern end of the bay offers views over the village and both sides of the peninsula. The destination is the summit cross; the western route starts on Strada Comunale Mondello behind San Vito.

Summit elevation: 530 m

Uphill route: Around 3 km

Indicative time: 1 hr 30 up + 1 hr down, excluding stops

Effort: Moderate; uphill on natural ground, exposed to the sun

The eastern approach is separate, from the SP63, identified as CAI trail 609. Choose your approach before setting off: descending the opposite side requires a return plan to your starting point. It is not automatically a loop.

West starting point · Mondello

East starting point · SP63

02 / TRAIL AND COVES

Zingaro: the coastal trail

The trail links the south entrance near Scopello with the north entrance near San Vito, passing headlands and the Uzzo area, with descents to permitted coves. If staying in San Vito, starting at the north entrance avoids driving around to Scopello.

Alba Chiara B&B Mancina Soul Sale e Mulini

Commercial partners - clickable links

Published distance: Around 7 km, one way

Manager’s indicative time: Around 2 hours, one way without stops

Out and back: Around 14 km; allow extra time for heat, undulations and swims

Terrain: Natural trail, stony sections and descents to coves

You do not need to cross the entire reserve: enter from the north, choose an accessible cove and return along the same path. For a full crossing, arrange transport from the opposite entrance beforehand; do not assume an internal shuttle exists.

Manager’s trail description

03 / THE RURAL LANDSCAPE

Zingaro: mid-level trail and Borgo Cusenza

For walkers who want to climb above the coves into the reserve’s interior. The manager’s route links Tonnarella dell’Uzzo, Torre dell’Uzzo, Marinella, Sughero, Borgo Cusenza and Casa Forestale through the rural landscape.

Published route length: Around 7.5 km

Indicative time: 3 hours for the described route, excluding stops

Starting area: Northern side / Tonnarella dell’Uzzo area

Plan ahead: Return route and ascent on the map; this is not a shoreline stroll

For a complete circuit, check links to the coastal trail and ask at the entrance which branches are open. Wells and troughs are not a drinking-water supply.

04 / THE MOUNTAIN BY THE SEA

Alba Chiara B&B Mancina Soul Sale e Mulini

Monte Cofano: choosing a coastal section

The headland separates the Custonaci coast from the Gulf of Macari. For a coastal walk, locate Frassino, Torre di San Giovanni and Tonnara di Cofano on the map: they are different landmarks, not one parking area. Choose your entrance and turnaround point in advance.

A summit ascent and a coastal walk have different demands. Do not judge the route by the mountain’s height alone. Use the manager’s map to distinguish sections and check closures; the complete circuit should not be assumed open.

• Allow for the return, not just reaching the viewpoint or cove. Add breaks and a margin before entrance closing times.

• Wear shoes with good grip; bring water for the full outing, a hat, sun protection and an offline map. In hot months, start early and avoid midday heat.

• With children, consider terrain, ascent and heat: short does not automatically mean easy. Published times are walking estimates, not swimming or visiting time.

• Tell someone your route and return time. If booking a guide, agree the itinerary, difficulty and activity qualifications beforehand. In an emergency call 112 and give your location and situation.

Cycling, a different rhythm of travel

A bike can handle short journeys or become the focus of the trip. Distinguish road riding from MTB and gravel routes: similar scenery does not mean the same surface or difficulty.

In the village and towards the hamlets

Check where riding is allowed in the centre and where you must dismount. Roads towards Macari and Castelluzzo carry traffic and include gradients; the connection is not a protected cycleway. Choose timing, equipment and distance to suit your experience.

Custonaci’s cycling park

The park guide distinguishes three routes around Cornino, Custonaci and Monte Sparagio: green 23.4 km, orange 33.4 km and red 41.5 km. Distance helps comparison but does not replace checking surface, ascent and technical sections on the current track.

MTB, gravel and the reserve boundary

Green and orange are described for MTB and gravel; red is a more demanding MTB route with technical sections. The guide states that bicycles are not allowed inside Monte Cofano Nature Reserve: cycling park routes run around it. Respect boundaries and signs even if a shared track suggests a shortcut.

Rentals and planning the day

When hiring, specify intended use, size, helmet, lock and repair-kit needs. For an e-bike, ask about range for the planned ascent and charging arrangements. Do not base your return solely on advertised kilometres. Carry water and an offline route, allowing for heat and stops.

Choose the route before arranging transport

If starting at Cornino, arrange transport from San Vito and confirm bike carriage. Not every car or shuttle takes assembled bicycles. For a guided ride, agree group level, support and return point before confirming.
